Genilogix Announces Enterprise Security Practice

Pittsburgh, PA / July 18, 2011: Genilogix, an HP Elite Partner and leading provider of quality/performance assurance and enterprise security solutions, today announced that it launched an Enterprise Security practice focused on security and compliance management solutions.

Attacks on public and private networks are increasing. Malware, hackers, bots, and malicious insiders threaten the confidential information and critical systems that drive business operations. The rise in attacks have increased regulations, as governments and industry groups push new rules and controls onto organizations of all sizes. Complying with security mandates can be overwhelming for even the largest firms.

Tom Walsh, Genilogix Vice-President of Enterprise Security Solutions stated, "As technology continues to evolve, all companies, regardless of how different they are from one another have a common need - to protect their networks from intrusion, to protect their confidential data and critical applications, and to comply with regulation."

To address this challenge, Genilogix provides a comprehensive offering of HP Security solutions and customized Genilogix services to ensure leading organizations in all major industries can quickly protect their operations from ongoing security risks and cyber threats.

Mel Maxwell, President of Genilogix, stated, "Providing an IT infrastructure for secure collaboration and enabling the enterprise to operate on a continuous basis may be two of the most difficult tasks any organization faces. Genilogix's strength is in our ability to quickly assess our customers' environment, develop forward-looking strategies, and provide the expertise to quickly implement the most effective solutions allowing our customers to protect, grow and evolve their business."

Headquartered in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Genilogix is an Elite HP Software Partner and winner of the 2010 and 2011 HP Partner Solution Offering of the Year Award. Genilogix provides a range of products and services to help customers recognize value within their organization for the HP business technology optimization (BTO) product line. Genilogix works closely with HP to offer innovative products and services that mitigate risk by ensuring security, quality, performance and availability for the enterprise. Certified product integrations such as Genilogix QC Mobile, QC eApprove, QC Workflow Accelerator, and QC vLab distinguish Genilogix as a unique value-added reseller.
